

CODE2040

LEARN HOW TO LAND A TECH INTERNSHIP

Tuesday, November 4, 2014

12:00 p.m. - 1:00 p.m.

UMBC

Commons 329

FREE food and drinks!

Register at: bit.ly/UMBC2040-14

“Because of CODE2040 I am aware of all the opportunities that exist in tech, especially the world of entrepreneurship.”

ABOUT CODE2040

CODE2040 is a non-profit organization that brings top Black and Latino/a computer science and engineering undergraduate and graduate students to Silicon Valley for tech internships and jobs. Through their flagship Fellows program, students get the opportunity to have a full time internship at companies like Facebook, Foursquare, and Jawbone. The TAP Program prepares students to apply for tech jobs and internships through a comprehensive program that includes in-person workshops, mentoring and coaching, and online meetups.

/CODE2040

@CODE2040

CODE2040.org