HOW TO CHOOSE THE RIGHT ORGANIZATION FOR YOU.

Joining a group means dedicating your time, energy and resources towards the projects, values, and beliefs of the organization. To help you determine which organization(s) may be right for you, we put together a few questions to ask the group and yourself.

Ask the Group:

- What values & beliefs does the group hold?
- What are the group's goals?
- What types of activities has the group participated in/ sponsored during the past year?
- What commitments of time, money, and other resources does the group expect of its members?
- With what local or national groups, if any, is the group affiliated?
- In what ways does this group support its members academically?

Ask Yourself:

- Do I hold the same values & beliefs as the group?
- Do I share all/some/any of the group's goals?
- Do I enjoy the types of activities in which the group takes part?
- How does joining this group fit with my schedule, budget, and other commitments?
- Do I share the same values and beliefs as the local/ national affiliate group?
- How will membership in this group help me personally and/or professionally?

A Note About High Pressure Groups:

You have the right to disassociate yourself from any group. If you are feeling uncomfortable or unsure about joining (or about your membership in) any student organization, discuss the matter with someone you trust such as a friend, relative, professor, or counselor. The Student Life Office (410-455-3623), Student Affairs Office (410-455-2393), and the Counseling Center (410-455-2472) are also prepared to provide information and assistance at any time.
